Bridal gifts are gifts or offerings given by the prospective groom’s family to the prospective bride as a form of respect (Aam Ramaliyah & Dyah Sulistyorini, 2004). Bridal gifts generally consist of women’s necessities and food which vary in quantity and type, such as: betel leaves, prayer sets, money, wedding rings, various clothing items, a set of cosmetics, toiletries, bedding, underwear, shoes, bags, cakes, fruit and others. This proposal is usually given as a sign of completion and proof of the validity of the marriage of the prospective bride and groom, which must be fulfilled in a marriage, and some are even given before the Muslim marriage contract. According to (Bernard Adeney-Risakotta,2016) states that a gift is not a bridal gift as payment for buying the bride, but rather as a sign of commitment and high honor given to the woman.
