INTRODUCTION

Today, many regions focus on tourism to increase people's income. Tourism is one of the driving sectors of the economy that needs to be given more attention to develop correctly. The concept of sustainable development is a topic that is widely discussed. The development of tourist areas through exploring the potential in the region is emphasized not only in economic aspects but also in environmental and social aspects (Eversole et al., 2014)(Phillipson et al., 2019). The movement of tourism development penetrates various terminologies, such as sustainable tourism development, rural tourism, and ecotourism, which is a tourism development approach that seeks to ensure that tourism can be carried out in non-urban tourist destinations(Luke & Chu, 2013)(Zakaria & Suprihardjo, 2014).

Rural tourism is a profitable development strategy for many purposes because it benefits the resulting economy and society, not only for area rural but also for purpose tours (Farmaki, 2017). Rural tourism delivers the chance to visitors to visit area countryside and all the potential that exists in rural areas as well as conserve culture and heritage areas, so that give benefits socio-economic for public local (Nair & Hussain, 2013). Temporary sustainability tourism originates from the phrase development sustainable. It is an alternative to tourist mass and an effort to increase the positive effect and reduce the negative effect on you, local society, and the environment (Ranjan, 2015). In general, appropriate tourism with sustainable development or what caused it could be called tourist sustainable.

Branjang Village is located on the northern slope of Mount Ungaran, where agricultural land, rice fields, and farming dominate the geographical conditions. Besides, there are still many people's forests that thrive. On the side, the location is also very strategic because it is in the golden triangle of Semarang Regency, which borders Semarang City and Kendal Regency. Village Banjang has a charming natural charm, views of rice fields and fields, lush forests full of fruits, such as jackfruit, mango, and durian, and cultural customs are still preserved, namely "Reog and Jaran Kepang. Branjang Village is also a religious tourism village with the tombs of influential figures, including the tombs of Ki Ageng Penjawi and Sunan Geseng on Mount Jadi, which stand towering.

Opportunity potency tour the not yet offset with source power competent human. However, there are still problems. Namely, the community has not optimized the potential of existing resources to be used for tourism potential in the Branjang Village area. It can be seen from the absence of data from the Tourism Office showing tourism activities in Branjang Village. Moreover, there are still very few tourist visitors to Branjang Village. Visitors at this time are only local people and urban people who pass through Branjang Village. They only see the natural scenery that unfolds without knowing that they can also interact with the local community to learn about local products. In addition, the local community does not promote tourism potential in the region.

Village Area Development tour Becomes an opportunity ample in increase the economy Public (Farmaki, 2016)(Beath et al., 2013)(Steiner & Atterton, 2015). Development village tours can be conducted with the approach of community-based tourism (CBT), so draft development sustainable permanent can apply. CBT is an emphasized concept that society for capable of managing and developing object tours by themselves alone. The CBT approach has excess because it puts society locally as subject to development tourism, not as an object, so that it is possible for society to develop a potency village, increase welfare, and empower the society locally (Nurhidayati, 2015).

Community-based tourism (CBT) was developed as a holistic and comprehensive approach to the development of tourist sustainability with an emphasis on participation in an inclusive society for all levels of development (Durkin & Perić, 2017). CBT has known widely because of its ability to increase the local economy, and have introduced in many countries (Lee & Jan 2019). The community involved in the development process through CBT is next sustainable; it boils down to a welfare society. CBT as a sustainable development model, tourism could benefit local society by producing income, diversifying the economy locally, preserving culture, preserving the environment, and delivering chance education (Durkin & Perić, 2017).

Based on the background of the problem and considering partner opportunities, this service is focused on developing the Branjang Tourism Village area through a community-based tourism (CBT) approach.
